- All information & maps provided to the local media
- Online Version

Southern States Tornado Disaster

- NOAA's preliminary estimate is that there were 305 tornadoes during the entire outbreak from 8:00 a.m. EDT April 25 to 8:00 a.m. April 28, 2011.
- There were 340 fatalities during the 24-hour-period from 8:00 a.m. April 27 to 8:00 a.m. April 28.

Midwestern Floods

- A series of heavy rainfall events from April 22 to April 27 caused widespread river flooding.
- Additional heavy rain to start the month of May is pushing rivers to near record crests in some cases
- The New Madrid Floodway was activated by the Army Corps of Engineers on May 2.
- The detonation of the levee near New Madrid relieved pressure on levees in the Mid-Mississippi and Lower Ohio Valleys. However, Kentucky Dam and Barkley Dam on the Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers are still holding back record amounts of water.
